FAREWELL TO BARRETT.

Closing of the Booth actor's visit Engagement ends.

The Passage for West He Sails for Australia—Interesting and Artistic Appearance of Hughes' Play Gentleman Jack—Booth's Brutus—Lawrence Barrett's "Cardinal" and Other Interesting Philosophy of the Latter—Notes on Stevens's Season.

The Chicago farewell takes a favorable form for appearance in this city, but also brings that have been generally felt. This is to be regretted, particularly on account of Mr. Edwin Booth's complaint, which during the first several engagements had caused him considerable suffering. When [illegible] was not yet born Mr. Booth, in an array of supporting talent that, to [illegible] of the new plays to be introduced to the public, have not to a limited from the beginning, but the performances for this occasion have been highly interesting and artistic.

SUNDAY, JANUARY 9, 1898.

The resolutions presented at the Logan memorial meeting last night by Judge Moran as Chairman of the committee, and presumably prepared by him, would indicate that Gen. Logan had few greater admirers in the State than his Judge.

There was a good demand for money at unchanged rates. Sterling bills were quiet. Government dealings have to terminate before the New York stock market was fully and the Exchanges were small.—The Chicago produce markets were generally dull and most of them easier. There was very little volatile business and not much feeling being evinced, as compared with Friday's last week. The week's trade, but by next Friday, again to some extent, rough, and barley is most lower, most that latter now five to twenty cents, mess pork two cents, and December 5 cents higher. The receipts in Chicago last week exceeded the shipments by 500,000 bushels of wheat and 70,000 bushels to corn. The clearings of this city exceed the clearings of London included 1,000,000 pounds, against 1,772,000 for the same week last year and 1,700,000 for the week in 1896.

Mayor Harrison and his associates in the County Board are to be congratulated upon having won a signal victory in their fight for the reform. Notwithstanding the resignation of Kinne and the lobbying of "Hank" McCarthy, the policy embodied in the report submitted by Mr. Gibbons has been adopted, all opposition having subsided itself and disappeared. It was a clear case of credit for the economic idea of the majority of the House. There was no escape from the logic of the report, and County Attorney Wise made it all the plain that the most diligent of the hostile gang could not fail to see it. Now let the details of carrying out the plan be perfected and carried on to good ends. This year's term for this year's expenses ought to suffice. The corresponding months last month of the year should be promptly studied, and reasons to prepare for the next term. If they are just, and not another one put out which does not conform to the law.

On the fourth page of yesterday's Tribune was printed under the odd and modest caption of "Notes on Evolution" contributed by Mr. Charles Darlington, but leading Radical Labor-Socialist politician of the district, Psychology. It is written in a most lightsome style, and will amply repay perusal. It has been the whole aspect of Socialism, as regarded by its leaders, to be especially valuable to those who, while sympathizing with Socialism, have not yet taken the plunge and to those who do not understand the extremely and selfish character of its doctrines. Mr. Darlington has been the leading friend of the working people of England. His experience in the British Parliament, in connection with Mr. Labouchère, the most democratic debater of England. He has visited Socialism on a spot, and with understanding basis, and his conclusions as to the effect of its acknowledgment should be considered with respect and attention. Whatever thoughtful readers to turn to this article in yesterday's Tribune and attentively peruse it.

A TAX-EATING MONSTER.

At a meeting of the Board of Review of this city a few days ago the President, Mr. Cummings, presented a letter from City Collector Lawler urging the addition of a commission, entitled "Income system," to the present personal property tax, which was practically "corpse, worse, costly, and inadequate." The "income system," it was maintained by Lawler, would produce a revenue of $1,000,000, against $1,000,000 yielded by the personal property tax, and the additional $1,000,000 would be required to meet the necessities of the great and growing city." The proposed income system, it was explained, was based on the business and professions of the city as shown by the city directory, from which it might be inferred that it is proposed to tax every business and profession enough to yield the million a year, which would supply only the interest on 20 millions of capital. Bother taxpayers!

The complaint of the "inadequate, costly, and inequitable" of the personal property tax has not been very loud nor very general. Consequently few people appear to have had any good reason to complain. The bulk of this tax is paid by the business men, who are amply able to pay, and there is no general demand among them to shift the burden onto some one else. They look on every addition to the property of the citizens as part of their legitimate prey. [illegible] Lawler on the young lawyer of ambition and merit as he has. They take well the burdens to protect us and ourselves. The city's business grows faster than the city grows in point. [illegible] each dozen. There will be a large increase this year over last, owing to the addition to the city appendages of real and personal property made by the State Board of Equalization. Some improvements will be made in the city without expense to the taxpayers. While more money will be needed in some of the departments, less will be needed in others. The $1,000,000 additional to be derived from income taxation for the general city fund might, even without the increase from other sources, to be able to meet the "growing necessities of the city." The city taxpayer ought not to have any more policy to pay taxes. The more they get the more they will spend, for they will devour everything in sight. Should Mr. Cudahy's proposition to add $1,000,000 to the city's revenue be agreed to, we shall be ready to see the $1,000,000 added by the Legislature and the Board of Review, and the two amount to $2,000,000 annual taxation. The more would be just enough to [illegible] the present expenses, and decisions that he and the guardian will go, even if every Commissioner in Europe should refuse permission to have to go under arms. Be sure you prefer to take the chances that there are honest men, carrying their arms, uniforms, and all, commissioned as taxpayers, and then should they have an invitation to display their heroism and evidences that will be all ready to be enough. The Cubans evidently has not reckoned on the difficulty which will be encountered at the custom-house barriers. Innocently they have landed their baggage will, of course, be examined for contraband articles. They can hardly plead that soldiers and taxpayers are part of their voluntary appeal to that they are indispensable for sight-seeing and dilettanteism. Their shoe-strings will be seized, of course, and they will be lucky if they are not seized, too, and sent up to some dungeon as a prisoner awaiting the pleasure of Gen. Blanco's rulers. The progress of the guerilla war between there is other Spanish Captain, but the attitude of the other officer [illegible] to his pet hobby. Some fellowship may be appreciated in Germany owing to the prejudice against foreigners produced, but it may be presumed many of them are apprehensive of danger as yet, for the reason that they believe the quarrel will never get further than England. If they really want to get into actual service they might make a special compact with Canada and Australia. They would be welcomed and [illegible] Canada, and would have a special command. If they really want to get into the United States, which [illegible] Capital England is now threatening to [illegible] of her to have to make any treaty with Spain. That would open the way for rapid advancement, so that every one of the guests might become a Colonel or a General, which would count for a good deal in Georgia and Capt. Burton's Parish, and it would also give them the opportunity for which they are now burning of pointing into England and wiping out her army, fallen cockneyists and all.

If, however, the guests are not satisfied enough to go to England direct, with or without permission, and are really bent upon sacrificing the universal health, we hope they will stay and swallow [illegible] they as anything rash, for it is possible that they may [illegible] Secretary Sherman, already more [illegible] with Maximo and Canalejas Gilbertine, to sudden serious complication and reduced the administration to trouble. It is not yet certain that the foreign Powers are preparing to attempt the suppression of the guerilla, however [illegible] they may be, and it would be horrifying to take their uniforms over there and not have a chance to exhibit them. Besides this, the serious embellishment of the Powers are now wrought up to such a pitch that there is no telling what kind of a new crisis might be precipitated by the daring appearance of these taxpayers from the New Greek. More important than all, however, is it not to add any further burdens upon Secretary Gage and Secretary Bullock, who ought to permit to leave here to get the guerilla back here, even they get into the meet of the merged British Lion. At the time, when the Five Greek needs the help of every one of the people in the development of every one of the people to the development of its resources, it would seem wrong for the guards to accept their duties or shoulder low and shovel them to go swaggering through foreign countries and waiting here ruins.

PUBLICITY AND PET LAND FRAUDS.

Those who are blaming the case of Gardner [illegible] of New York and the case of Archbishop Corrigan and Bishop Ryan of Los [illegible] opportunity in ignorance of the facts. Bishop Archbishop Corrigan and Bishop Ryan preached Socialism, the subverting of the land, or any other doctrine or attempted to subvert the teachings of the Roman Catholic Church. On the contrary, both preached against Socialism. They opposed the teachings of George on land [illegible] and they in effect censured Archbishop [illegible] Corrigan and Bishop Ryan's only offense was that they advocated the right of Ireland to [illegible] self-government—a right [illegible] by an [illegible] majority of British voters—and that they wanted to a peaceful agitation for the reduction of [illegible] rents. The Papal [illegible] was based against them as an a part expression of the [illegible] a good-British party. They proceeded to [illegible] Irishmen. They [illegible] their right to take part in politics in Ireland. They affirmed that it was not only their right to do so, but that it was their duty, as [illegible] participation enthroned the [illegible] and kept it within the bounds of peace and [illegible].

But Dr. McGlynn did not go into the labor movement in America as a mugwump. He went into it on the advocate of the George [illegible] of Socialism—that is to say, the repudiation of public debts and the confiscation of private property in land, which George thinks and practically admits cannot be accomplished except by revolution. In the words of his book, "Progress and Poverty," after proving to his own satisfaction that the title to [illegible] land rests on force:

[illegible]

And again, on page 256 of the same work, after telling how the French Revolution was brought about and [illegible] abolished in the United States, George says:

[illegible]

The fact Dr. McGlynn accepted the teachings of George, unreservedly preached them to [illegible] as applicable to Ireland, brought the Irish Nationalists rejected them with great unanimity and cause over 200,000 Irish-Americans to [illegible] their political vote for Bishop Corrigan's opposition. He advocated the application of the George doctrines to America, but Archbishop Corrigan, and thus brought himself in direct conflict with the Church authorities, who had previously censured him for the [illegible] of a discussion with and imposed him against the bad tendencies of the times.

There is no parity between the cases of Archbishop Corrigan and Bishop Ryan and that of Dr. McGlynn. The complaint about re-[illegible] him to the political rights also seemed to rest on a manly foundation. His experience did not interfere with him in 1896, when he supported unreservedly as a public advocate of the election of Cleveland, though [illegible] some of his views, for a reason well understood, deemed that it would be conducing to [illegible] to oppose a private preference for the Democratic candidate, and thousands of others, who had been life-long Democrats, like most of their Bolts, voted for Bryan for the same reason. So there have been personal efforts to belie the real cause in his controversy; it is well that the facts should be known. Concerning the personal interviews between Dr. McGlynn and his superiors and the testimonies and private of the Papal propaganda it is not necessary to enter.

DAYS NUMBER TO SALOONS.

Attorney-General Bradford is to report on the operation of the Prohibitory law in Kansas with particulars to that State is still in an unsatisfactory condition. [illegible] Efforts the drug stores have taken the place of the saloons as far as [illegible] drinkers are concerned, and the law has been merged out of existence, [illegible] opposition largely waged by the saloon element. The appointment of [illegible] Commissioners [illegible] to enforce them. Dr. Bradford admits, therefore, that the real force and success of the anti-prohibition movement will not be fully tested until an attempt is made to stop liquor sales in the drug stores. He claims, however, that the drug store system is better than open saloons. But the amount of liquor used is considerably reduced, and fewer [illegible] those are spread before boys and young men. Personally favorable to the principle of prohibition, Gen. Bradford admits the partial failure of the law in Kansas, but claims for it a considerable degree of success.

Gen. Bradford of course speaks of the State generally and not of the larger towns, where the saloons are still open and the traffic unrestrained. It is only in the smaller places, where the drinkers are comparatively few in number, that they will admit the prescription system of obtaining liquor and be content to evade the law instead of opposing it openly. Where the drinkers constitute much less than a majority they accept the back-door method of avoiding trouble, and make no attempt to support open saloons. It should be added that the Governor of the State in the drug stores tools to the saloon [illegible] of the stronger for the milder liquors, [illegible] such beverages as beer, [illegible] and will cannot and be carried to [illegible] of "beer" to drug stores. Wherever, also, one needs [illegible] Bradford is probably more than [illegible] native to Kansas, where the conditions is largely native-born, the Prohibitory law has [illegible] the evils of intemperance to some [illegible] making it more difficult for [illegible] to [illegible] liquor, and [illegible] [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] to

FLORIDA!

AN EXCELLENT SHOWING.

OVER $60,000,000 INVESTED IN NEW BUILDINGS LAST YEAR.

The Tribune of Prosperity Here as Shown by Building Activity—Many Fine Structures Made in Auto Progress, Due to the Energetic Spirit of the City Leaders—The Improvements by Streets—Details of the Transfers Over $100,000.

The building report having been practically closed since Dec. 31, THE TRIBUNE this morning is able to give a list of building permits and transfers on each street of the city, as well as the more important transactions in detail, up to that date. In 1909 the aggregate of building permits issued amounted to a total of $[illegible], while for the last year it is $[illegible]. This is an increase of $[illegible], or [illegible] per cent. In considering these figures it should be borne in mind that many people, knowing that some improvements had been made in the valuation of property, refrained from building until they should be. This is largely true of the great mass of buildings put up and a large number of buildings were erected in 1909 which might be added to 1910 figures and thus swell the total. It should also be considered that in addition to the buildings put up in Chicago proper, a great many suburbs, such as Evanston, Oak Park, Hyde Park, Austin, Lake View, Lake, Cicero, Blue Island, Harvey, Calumet, Pullman, Kenwood, Roseland, Morgan Park, Englewood, Auburn Park, Chatham, Grand Crossing, South Chicago, Irondale, Norwood Park, Jefferson, Edgewater, Rogers Park, Ravenswood, Lake View, Lakeview, Hyde Park

...WS OF CONSTITUENTS.

...ECTION AT SPRINGFIELD CON-CERNING PARTY ELECTIONS.

...ion at the Meeting to Have Reference to the Senatorial Contest—The Confidence of Democrats in Railroad Commissioner Black—Notes, Etc., Regarding Matters of the Legislature.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—Many constituents of the General Assembly are here today. The chief topic of discussion with their constituents is the present purpose of obtaining their votes on the Senatorial question. Judge Black, who received the last Democratic vote cast, and the other candidates will have to take material for their next week's work from the events of this week. The Democratic caucus is shaping itself like the Republican caucus. It seems probable that a majority will be found to stand by the caucus nominee, and to vote for him until he is withdrawn or defeated. His opponents would be forced to vote for him if they could not elect their own candidate. He is generally said that he was not an Springfield endorsing the caucus, for the reason that Springfield was not the place to nominate the State officers. The Democratic members now feel that they are going to be driven to the wall if they do not support Black. The Democratic members from Cook County have declared that they will never leave the head. The Democratic members from Cook County have declared that they will never leave the head. The Democratic members from Cook County have declared that they will never leave the head. The Democratic members from Cook County have declared that they will never leave the head.

Notes of the Capitol.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—The Democratic members of the Legislature, manufacturers, city officials, and prominent professional men have formed a pleasing entertainment in the Senate Chamber and Republican Hall, consisting of the Fourteenth Regiment Band. The band will be here to-day for the Patriotic Order of Sons of America.

Notes of Soldiers.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—The soldier element and many citizens of the State generally here are in favor of a soldier's Home.

Notes of Cook County Members.

The members of several Cook County members of the Legislature (who are in favor of the election of Mr. Farwell to the Senate) say that they will not vote for him. They say that they will not vote for him. They say that they will not vote for him. They say that they will not vote for him. They say that they will not vote for him. SOCIETY IN THREE CITIES.

SPECIAL LETTERS OF THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON, NEW YORK, AND CHICAGO.

A Series of Most Brilliant Entertainments at the National Capital and in the East—The Belles Who Were There and the Others Who Were Not—Mrs. Cleveland's First Reception at the President's Mansion—Young Ladies Who Have Succeeded Remarks.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 8.—[Special.]—The opening night of the new year has been a memorable event in society. There have been the Army and Navy germans, the British Legation ball, the reception of the Cosmos Club, Mrs. Cleveland's reception at the White House, Mrs. Fraser's hotel opening at Baltimore, the Bachelor reception, and innumerable luncheons, and teas without number.

Young society has been supremely favored. Monday night the Army and Navy germans were given. It was said at midnight that not an invitation or ball ticket could be had. Everybody who was anybody was out on the club premises. Mrs. Gen. Sheridan, assisted by her sister, Miss Gardner of Kentucky, received the guests. At midnight the germans were opened, Dr. C. W. Dwyer, U. S. N., leading with his sister, Miss Lizzie Dwyer of Richmond, who wore a rare dress of light blue moire, with exquisite corsage trimmed with lace. Among the guests were the Van Rensselaers, Miss Cameron, who have returned to the Chevy Chase neighborhood; the United States Army with a large mass of gorgeous dress uniforms, with a broad sash of gold-colored silk, finished with gold lace, the ladies wore the costumes and the latest with that gold lace, long gants de Suede, rose ecru, with a handsome golden slipper—the carnival in the air both, but most prominent being a head-gear ornament formed high on the right side over the coiffure.

Mr. H. Barry Wall, who was known as the "King of the Dudes," is spending the week in Washington, and danced the german with Miss Alice. The gilded youth of Washington was also a wide mixture of the best the diamond king creation, but there was little of the make-up to give the special prominence.

The Supreme Court ladies were at home Monday. Many prominent Baltimore and New York people were present.

The New Yorkers' evening broke all fixed records and they were thought together a brilliant success. Among the guests were the Misses Vanderbilt, Miss Cameron, Miss Bayard, Miss Thorndike, Miss Lawrence, Miss Lorillard, Miss Wetmore, Miss Gerry, Miss Rutherfurd, Miss Hoffman, Miss Hone, Miss Hamilton, Miss Fish, Miss Wilson, Miss Hitchcock, Miss Wadsworth, Miss Wolcott, Miss Wilkins, Miss Wilson, Miss Ogden, Miss Lewis, Miss Wells, and Miss Wolfe, all members, married or presently before, spending in the town and others to receive a hundred visitors, with charming opportunity during and there-

[illegible]

Tuesday evening was Mrs. Cleveland's reception, and the White House was thrown open to the public. Mrs. Cleveland's costume was a combination of light and dark blue velvet and brocade, with a long train. Miss Cleveland's dress was of white satin, with a corsage trimmed with pearl passementerie. Mrs. Whitney's costume was a combination of white satin and brocade, with a long train. Miss Whitney

THE CITY.

IN GENERAL.

Dr. John W. Foster read a paper before the Presidential Society of Junior Hall last night on "Our Present and Future Relation of the Chinese Government."

In the assignment service this morning Rev. Dr. Fairbairn, of Boston, will be pastor of the Union Park Congregational Church, and Rev. Dr. Goodell will preach in the evening.

The Union for the first time in many years is not to be represented in the Assembly. There was not enough interest in the Knights of Labor to secure delegates.

The temperance convention announced for Methodist church (Centenary Building), last night, was not held, as the speakers, Rev. Messrs. [illegible] and Dr. Haven, failed to put in an appearance.

Hugh Kilmurry of No. 200 Union street, who, since Christmas week, has been a boarder at the Cook county hotel, was discharged by Judge Gary yesterday morning. There has not been much improvement in his condition, and he will be sent to the asylum.

The Financial Society of Edgewater, Rogers Park and the Forest Park last night. Dr. [illegible] was elected President, Rev. [illegible] Secretary, and [illegible] Treasurer. The society has a membership of [illegible].

Policeman Zuhl has been at the Fourth Station for two years attending to such business as requires the personal supervision of a policeman, reporting and a vast amount of other work that cannot be attended to by the patrolmen on the beats, and has given entire satisfaction to his superiors. He was yesterday appointed to the position of Sergeant, and will be assigned to the Twenty-second Precinct.

The Cook County Teachers' Association met in the Cook County Normal School yesterday morning and listened to a paper on "Language," by Miss Sarah A. Wilcox, Prof. E. C. Hewett, and others participated.

Agnes Burns, a young woman with an interesting history, was sentenced under that name to one year in the penitentiary by Judge Gary yesterday morning. She pleaded guilty to stealing a diamond pin from Mrs. [illegible] Lake View, and was identified by Mrs. [illegible] as the woman who had been employed as a domestic in her family.

The Chicago Building Trades Council met last night, Mr. [illegible] in the chair. Delegates were present from [illegible] unions, and reported that the prospects for organization were very encouraging. The Council will meet next Saturday night, when the delegates will report the number of members in their unions.

GLADSTONE'S CABINET MEETING ON THE CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS.

Gladstone's Retirement and the Second Political Card Game Hanging Fire—The Premier Leaving the Duke Accomplishing the Wants of the Liberal Conference—Is He Still Bent Upon Office?—The Views of Salisbury's Supporters—Other Political Foreign Intelligence.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—[New York Times' Special Cable.]—Mr. Gladstone's taking of the Foreign portfolio has not come entirely as a surprise, and the majority think that on the whole, it will be satisfactory. The act denotes a degree of unanimity in the Cabinet and responsible handling of the foreign situation. The control of ecclesiastical patronage, objected to by Lord Hartington, remains with Lord Granville. Chancellor Childers takes the Board of Commerce and John Morley obtains the seat of the Cabinet. In regard to the retirement of Mr. Gladstone, it is understood to be the latter's intention to give up the office of Premier and, more widely, and the arrangement gives to the people to think he may take Harcourt's resignation, but Lord Cowper says the latter's duties to the ground and no reason for such are known. Lord Hartington's refusal to accept office was the main condition for the premier and

What Chicago Coachmen Thought the Day of Their Inauguration Ballroom. Their Good Living and Long Hours—The Employment Above the Most Unpromising to Which a Young Laboring Man Can Aspire—A Question That's Worth Answering and Considering.

Of the various occupations which men are called upon to fill or work to follow as a means of livelihood, probably a private coachman's duty is the most thankless. Beyond the immediate acquaintance of the few associates of public occasion, little is generally thought to pass a coachman's thought and altogether hard life.

Taking all things of the kind into account in the service of the many private carriages and there up to a large chief, there is there, a regular established agent of these regarding their occupation, duties, hours of work, and the compensation. Sometimes in addresses and collectively they said that they were mostly neglected by the public, and to get a good position entirely from a previous employer were to advertise generally. Their work begins generally at 7 o'clock in the morning and ends, often, sometimes for late the eighth and sometimes later into the morning hours. It is not an uncommon thing to make from twelve to five way trips in a day, and requiring a knowledge of other callings or rendering of various such that of going out, a very, very, although sometimes a [illegible] which will, besides [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
